

Kim Myles

CHIEF FINANCIAL OFFICER

Kim is a seasoned financial executive with a proven track record of driving financial performance improvement across a variety of businesses and engagements, both as a CFO and as an accomplished financial and operational consultant. Having served in executive positions for publicly held and family held businesses, as well as multiple private equity-owned businesses, Kim has experience leading a wide range of mission-critical projects ranging from establishing freestanding financial departments to navigating complex mergers, acquisitions, and divestitures. Kim is a highly adaptive, results-driven leader whose financial and technical acumen, combined with her talent as a leader, mentor, and teacher of people, make her an ideal fit for Bestige's long-term, partnership-focused investment strategy.

At Bestige, Kim is responsible for overseeing all accounting, financial reporting, fund management, and compliance-related activities, in addition to managing communications with current and prospective investors. Given her extensive financial management and operational experience, she plays a key role in working with our deal and operations teams to standardize reporting, perform analyses, identify improvement opportunities, and provide mentorship to our portfolio companies.

For the decade prior to joining Bestige, Kim worked as a financial and operational consultant providing interim management/leadership, financial improvement, and process redevelopment strategies to over 25 companies. Prior to co-launching her consulting practice, Kim served as a CFO or Interim-CFO for multiple private equity-owned businesses. In these roles, Kim was responsible for establishing financial and operational reporting, integrating new acquisitions, carving out non-core divisions, consolidating facilities, leading ERP implementations, and performing other complex operational projects.

Earlier in her career, Kim worked in various positions at Redcats USA, a direct-to-consumer women's clothing corporation, including Controller, Manager of FP&A, Manager of Imports, and Accounting Manager. She also worked as Senior Manager, FP&A for J. Jill Group, a retail store segment of a multi-channel seller of women's apparel and accessories.

Kim received a Bachelor of Science from Bryant College and a Master of Business Administration from Boston College. She lives in Anthem, Arizona, with her husband David and has six adult children who live in various locations across the United States.
