

Chase Kilty

MANAGER, CORPORATE DEVELOPMENT

Chase is a Manager at Bestige Holdings, where he focuses on executing add-on acquisitions across the firm's portfolio companies. He partners closely with leadership teams to identify, evaluate, and integrate strategic acquisition opportunities that accelerate growth, expand capabilities, and strengthen market positioning.

With more than seven years of experience spanning private equity, venture capital, and economic consulting, Chase has developed broad expertise in financial analysis, due diligence, transaction advisory, and market assessments. Prior to joining Bestige, he spent time at LongWater Opportunities and Energy Transition Ventures, where he supported live transactions, developed investment theses, and conducted detailed financial and operational diligence. Earlier in his career, Chase worked for nearly six years at Burns & McDonnell, advising electric utilities and energy developers on large-scale generation investments and market strategy. Across these roles, Chase has developed a passion for relationship building and client service that extends beyond the project.

Originally from Kansas City, Chase earned an MBA in Finance from the University of Texas and a degree in Industrial Engineering from the University of Arkansas. Now based in Austin with his wife, Dana, he enjoys basketball, golf, spending time outdoors, and following Kansas City and Arkansas sports teams.
